

TransactX Terms and Conditions

Effective Date: June 5, 2026

Last Updated: May 31, 2026

Introduction

TransactX is a financial technology platform operated by TrackVault Limited (“TransactX”, “we”, “our”, or “us”) and designed to facilitate digital financial operations, payments, transactions, and related financial services.

These Terms and Conditions (“Terms”, “It”) govern access to and the use of the TransactX platform, applications, products, technologies, and related services provided by TransactX (collectively referred to as “Services”).

These Terms outline the relationship between the platform and individuals or entities that access or use our Services (“users”, “you”, or “your”). By accessing or using our Services, you acknowledge that you have read, understood, and agreed to be bound by these Terms together with any policies, notices, guidelines, or disclosures referenced herein. If you do not agree, you should discontinue use of our Services.

1. Eligibility

Our Services are available only to individuals and entities legally permitted to enter binding agreements under applicable laws.

By accessing or using our Services, users represent and warrant that:

- they are of legal age within their jurisdiction;
- information provided to TransactX is accurate, complete, and up to date;
- they are not prohibited from using financial services under applicable laws or regulations;
- use of our Services will comply with all applicable laws, regulations, and financial compliance requirements.

We reserve the right to suspend, restrict, refuse, or terminate access to our Services where eligibility requirements are not satisfied or where continued access may expose the platform, its users, or partners to regulatory, operational, or security risks.

2. Account Registration and Verification

Certain Services may require users to create and maintain verified accounts. Users may be required to provide personal, financial, or identification information and complete verification procedures in accordance with applicable Know Your Customer (KYC), Anti-Money Laundering (AML), fraud prevention, and regulatory obligations.

Users are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of account credentials, restricting unauthorized access to their devices and accounts, keeping account information current, and reporting suspected unauthorized access, fraud, or security incidents promptly.

We may refuse, suspend, restrict, or terminate accounts where verification requirements are incomplete, inaccurate, suspicious, inconsistent with regulatory obligations, or reasonably considered to present operational or security concerns.

Users understand that verification requirements may change periodically in response to regulatory obligations, platform updates, security considerations, or third-party partner requirements.

3. Description of Services

We provide financial technology services that support digital financial management, payments, transactions, and related financial operations.

Services provided through the platform may include:

- digital wallet functionality;
- peer-to-peer transfers;
- bill payments;
- invoicing and payment solutions;
- payroll management services;
- virtual card services;
- transaction monitoring and analytics;
- integrations with third-party financial or communication systems;
- cryptocurrency-related functionality, where introduced and legally permissible;
- AI-assisted financial features and automated financial management tools, where available.

Some services are provided directly through the platform, while others may rely on licensed financial institutions, payment processors, banking partners, infrastructure providers, blockchain networks, telecommunications providers, or integration partners.

Service availability depends on jurisdiction, verification status, regulatory requirements, technical limitations, operational considerations, and third-party provider availability.

4. Platform Availability and Service Improvements

TransactX may continually develop, improve, modify, suspend, replace, or discontinue portions of our Services to enhance functionality, security, operational efficiency, compliance standards, platform reliability, or user experience.

While We may take reasonable steps to maintain uninterrupted access to our Services, platform availability may occasionally be affected by:

- maintenance activities;
- technical upgrades;
- security incidents;
- third-party service interruptions;
- regulatory directives;
- infrastructure failures;

- internet or telecommunications disruptions.

We do not guarantee uninterrupted or error-free access to our Services at all times.

Availability of certain Services may be limited to jurisdictions where the platform is operationally or legally supported.

5. User Responsibilities and Prohibited Activities

Users are expected to use our Services lawfully, responsibly, and in compliance with these Terms.

You shall not:

- use our Services for fraudulent, unlawful, deceptive, or abusive activities;
- impersonate another individual or entity;
- provide false, inaccurate, or misleading information;
- interfere with platform functionality, operations, infrastructure, or security mechanisms;
- attempt unauthorized access to systems, accounts, servers, or data;
- exploit vulnerabilities or misuse platform infrastructure;
- use our Services for money laundering, terrorism financing, or other prohibited financial activities;
- engage in activities that may compromise the integrity, availability, or reputation of the platform.

Activities carried out through user credentials will be treated as authorized unless proven otherwise under applicable laws.

We reserve the right to investigate suspected violations and take appropriate action, which may include suspension, restriction, reporting to relevant authorities, or account termination.

6. Transactions and Financial Activities

Our Services may facilitate various financial activities including transfers, wallet transactions, bill payments, virtual card operations, payroll services, invoicing, and other related financial technology functions.

Users are responsible for reviewing transaction details before authorizing transactions through the platform. Transaction limits may apply depending on verification level, account category, regulatory obligations, or operational requirements.

Users understand that transaction processing may involve third-party institutions, banking infrastructure, payment networks, blockchain systems, telecommunications providers, or other external service providers.

Transaction processing times, confirmations, reversals, settlement periods, and service continuity depend on operational, technical, regulatory, and third-party factors.

TransactX shall not be responsible for losses, delays, or failures arising from:

- incorrect recipient details supplied by users;
- user negligence or unauthorized account access;
- network failures or delays outside TransactX's reasonable control;
- third-party infrastructure interruptions;
- blockchain network congestion or failures;
- regulatory restrictions or financial institution actions.

Users understand that certain transactions may be delayed, reversed, restricted, or declined where required for compliance, fraud prevention, security, or operational purposes.

7. Fees and Charges

Some of our Services may attract fees, charges, commissions, processing costs, subscription fees, or third-party charges. These fees may be displayed within the platform or otherwise communicated before transactions are completed.

Additional charges imposed by financial institutions, payment processors, blockchain networks, telecommunications providers, or other third parties remain outside the platform's control.

We reserve the right to revise applicable fees, commissions, or pricing structures where reasonably necessary for operational, commercial, legal, or regulatory purposes.

8. Virtual Cards and Third-Party Financial Services

Access to virtual cards, banking infrastructure, payment systems, or financial products are some of our Services operated in partnership with licensed third-party providers.

Use of such services may additionally be subject to the terms, policies, operational requirements, restrictions, and approvals imposed by the applicable third-party provider. We do not guarantee:

- uninterrupted availability of third-party services;

- merchant acceptance of virtual cards;
- transaction approval in all circumstances;
- continued access to third-party financial systems;
- compatibility with all platforms or merchants.

Service interruptions or restrictions may result from actions, compliance requirements, or operational decisions taken by third-party providers.

9. Cryptocurrency Services

Where cryptocurrency-related functionality is introduced or made available through our platform, users acknowledge that digital assets and cryptocurrency markets carry significant risks such as:

- price volatility;
- market fluctuations;
- technological risks;
- blockchain-related delays;
- regulatory uncertainty;
- potential financial loss.

Users remain solely responsible for decisions relating to cryptocurrency transactions, conversions, transfers, or holdings carried out through our Services.

TransactX does not provide investment advice, financial advisory services, guarantees of profitability, or assurances relating to the value or future performance of cryptocurrencies or digital assets.

Cryptocurrency-related services may be modified, suspended, restricted, or discontinued where required for compliance, operational, technical, or regulatory reasons.

10. Electronic Communications

By accessing or using our Services, users consent to receive electronic communications, notices, disclosures, alerts, updates, and records from Us through email, SMS, in-app notifications, website notices, or other electronic means.

Such communications may relate to:

- account activity;
- transactions;

- security alerts;
- compliance notices;
- platform updates;
- policy changes;
- customer support interactions.

Users are responsible for maintaining accurate and accessible contact information to ensure receipt of important communications.

11. Privacy and Data Protection

Use of our Services is also governed by the TransactX Privacy Policy, which explains how personal information may be collected, processed, stored, shared, and protected.

Personal information may be collected, processed, stored, shared, and protected in accordance with the Privacy Policy and applicable laws. By using the Services, users acknowledge the Privacy Policy and understand that certain processing activities may be necessary for the provision, operation, security, and improvement of the Services.

We may implement reasonable administrative, technical, and organizational safeguards designed to protect personal information against unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration, misuse, or destruction.

12. Intellectual Property

All intellectual property rights relating to our Services, such as software, branding, trademarks, logos, platform designs, text, graphics, content, documentation, and technologies remain the property of TransactX or its licensors unless otherwise stated.

Users shall not:

- reproduce or distribute platform materials without authorization;
- reverse engineer platform technologies;
- modify or create derivative works from our Services;
- commercially exploit any portion of our Services without prior written consent.

Nothing contained within our Services shall be interpreted as granting users ownership rights over TransactX intellectual property.

13. Suspension, Restriction, and Termination

We reserve the right to suspend, restrict, terminate, or limit access to our Services where reasonably necessary for:

- regulatory compliance;
- fraud prevention;
- security concerns;
- operational maintenance;
- suspected unlawful activity;
- breach of these Terms;
- protection of users, partners, infrastructure, or the platform.

Restrictions or termination may occur without prior notice where immediate action is reasonably necessary to prevent harm, maintain security, comply with legal obligations, or protect platform integrity.

Users may discontinue use of our Services at any time subject to applicable obligations, pending transactions, or regulatory requirements.

14. Disclaimer of Warranties

Our Services are provided on an “as is” and “as available” basis without warranties of any kind, whether express, implied, statutory, or otherwise.

To the fullest extent permitted under applicable laws, TransactX disclaims warranties relating to:

- uninterrupted platform availability;
- continuous access to third-party integrations;
- merchant acceptance of payment instruments;
- transaction completion in all circumstances;
- freedom from delays, outages, cyber incidents, or operational disruptions;
- compatibility with all devices, systems, or networks.

These are reasonable measures implemented to maintain platform reliability and security. However, uninterrupted functionality, absolute security, and error-free operation cannot be absolutely guaranteed.

15. Limitation of Liability

To the fullest extent permitted under applicable laws, We shall not be liable for indirect, incidental, consequential, punitive, or special damages arising from or relating to:

- use or inability to use our Services;
- transaction failures or delays;
- cryptocurrency market fluctuations;
- unauthorized access caused by user negligence;
- third-party infrastructure failures;
- operational interruptions beyond reasonable control;
- data loss or corruption;
- acts or omissions of third-party service providers.

Nothing in these Terms excludes liability where such exclusion is prohibited under applicable laws.

Use of financial technology services involves operational, technological, regulatory, and financial risks that cannot be entirely eliminated.

16. Force Majeure

We shall not be liable for delays, interruptions, failures, or inability to provide our Services resulting from events beyond its reasonable control.

Such events may include:

- natural disasters;
- cyberattacks;
- internet or telecommunications failures;
- labor disputes;
- governmental actions or regulatory restrictions;
- power outages;
- banking infrastructure failures;
- acts of war, terrorism, civil unrest, or public emergencies;
- failures of third-party infrastructure providers.

Where reasonably practicable, We may take commercially reasonable steps to minimize the impact of such events on our Services.

17. Changes to our Services or Terms

We reserve the right to modify, suspend, discontinue, replace, or update any portion of our Services or these Terms where reasonably necessary for operational, legal, regulatory, security, technical, or commercial purposes.

Updated Terms may become effective upon publication unless otherwise stated. Continued use of our Services following such updates constitutes acknowledgment of the revised Terms. Users are encouraged to review these Terms periodically for updates or modifications.

18. Governing Law and Dispute Resolution

These Terms shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Federal Republic of Nigeria.

Any dispute, controversy, or claim arising out of or relating to these Terms, the Services, or the relationship between the parties shall first be addressed through good-faith negotiations

Where disputes remain unresolved, such disputes may be submitted to the appropriate courts or dispute resolution mechanisms within Nigeria, subject to applicable laws and mutually agreed procedures.
