

TRANSACTX Disclaimer

Effective Date: June 5, 2026

Last Updated: May 31, 2026

Introduction

This Disclaimer should be read together with the TransactX Terms and Conditions, Privacy Policy, Scope of Business, and other applicable platform documentation. It provides additional disclosures regarding operational risks, service limitations, third-party dependencies, and other matters relating to the use of the TransactX platform, applications, products, technologies, and related services operated by TrackVault Limited (“TransactX”, “we”, “our”, or “us”).

By accessing or using our Services, users accept and agree to this Disclaimer alongside all applicable Terms and Conditions, policies, notices, and related documentation governing use of the platform. If a user does not agree with this Disclaimer, such user should discontinue use of our Services.

1. General Disclaimer

TransactX operates as a financial technology platform and does not function as a licensed deposit-taking financial institution. Our Services are provided on an “as is” and “as available” basis, depending on operational availability, third-party infrastructure, maintenance activities, and other technical or regulatory factors. While reasonable steps are taken to maintain the reliability, security, accuracy, and availability of our Services, uninterrupted access, continuous availability, or error-free operation cannot be fully guaranteed at all times.

This Disclaimer provides additional disclosures regarding platform risks, service limitations, third-party dependencies, and user responsibilities. It supplements, and does not replace, other documentations regarding the use of our platform.

Operational interruptions, service delays, inaccuracies, outages, or technical issues may occur due to maintenance activities, infrastructure limitations, third-party dependencies, security incidents, regulatory directives, or events beyond our reasonable control.

Availability of certain Services may be limited to jurisdictions where the platform is operationally or legally supported.

Nothing contained on the platform constitutes a guarantee of uninterrupted functionality, transaction success, financial performance, or platform availability.

2. No Financial or Investment Advice

TransactX does not provide financial, investment, legal, tax, accounting, or professional advisory services. Any information made available through our Services is provided for general informational and operational purposes only and should not be interpreted as financial or investment advice.

Users remain responsible for evaluating their transactions, financial decisions, digital asset activities, investment choices, and use of any financial tools or services accessed through the platform, and have the duty to seek independent professional advice appropriate to their circumstances where necessary.

3. Cryptocurrency and Digital Asset Risks

Where cryptocurrency or digital asset functionality is available, users understand that digital asset markets involve significant risks, including:

- price volatility;
- market fluctuations;
- liquidity risks;
- blockchain delays or failures;
- cybersecurity risks;
- regulatory uncertainty;
- potential partial or total financial loss.

Digital asset transactions may be irreversible, delayed, restricted, or impacted by third-party infrastructure, market conditions, or regulatory actions. We do not guarantee the value, performance, profitability, stability, or future availability of any cryptocurrency or digital asset service.

Users assume full responsibility for cryptocurrency-related decisions and transactions carried out through our Services.

4. Third-Party Services and Integrations

Certain features available through our Services depend on third-party providers such as:

- financial institutions;
- payment processors;
- licensed banking partners;
- telecommunications providers;
- blockchain infrastructure providers;
- card issuers;
- external integrations or service providers.

We do not control the operations, policies, decisions, availability, security practices, or performance of third-party providers.

As a result, certain transactions, integrations, or features may be delayed, interrupted, restricted, declined, suspended, or discontinued due to third-party actions, supported financial institutions, user verification status, jurisdictional limitations, operational availability or limitations outside our control.

TransactX shall not be responsible for losses, damages, or disruptions resulting from the acts, omissions, failures, or decisions of third-party providers.

5. Service Availability Disclaimer

Platform availability may occasionally be affected by:

- scheduled maintenance;
- technical upgrades;
- software or infrastructure failures;
- internet or telecommunications disruptions;
- cybersecurity incidents;
- regulatory directives;
- banking network interruptions;
- third-party infrastructure failures.

Although reasonable operational and security measures are implemented, uninterrupted access to our Services cannot be guaranteed.

We reserve the right to suspend, modify, restrict, or discontinue portions of our Services where reasonably necessary for maintenance, compliance, operational, technical, or security purposes.

6. Transaction Disclaimer

Users are responsible for reviewing transaction details before authorizing transactions carried out through the platform. Therefore, We shall not be responsible for losses, delays, failed transactions, or operational issues arising from:

- incorrect recipient details;
- unauthorized account access caused by user negligence;
- banking infrastructure failures;
- payment network interruptions;
- blockchain delays;

- internet or telecommunications failures;
- regulatory restrictions;
- system incompatibilities;
- third-party operational failures.

Transaction processing times and settlement periods may vary depending on operational, technical, regulatory, or third-party factors.

7. Limitation of Liability

To the fullest extent permitted under applicable laws, TransactX shall not be liable for indirect, incidental, consequential, special, or punitive damages arising from:

- use or inability to use our Services;
- transaction interruptions or delays;
- digital asset losses;
- third-party service failures;
- unauthorized access to user accounts;
- operational downtime;
- data loss or corruption;
- cybersecurity incidents;
- regulatory restrictions or enforcement actions.

Nothing in this Disclaimer excludes liability where such exclusion is prohibited under applicable laws.

8. No Warranty

No representation, warranty, or guarantee is provided regarding:

- accuracy of platform content;
- uninterrupted platform availability;
- transaction completion in all circumstances;
- merchant acceptance of payment instruments;
- compatibility with all devices or systems;
- continuous access to third-party integrations;
- security against all possible cyber threats or unauthorized activities.

All warranties, whether express, implied, statutory, or otherwise, are disclaimed to the fullest extent permitted under applicable laws.

9. Regulatory and Compliance Disclaimer

Some of our services provided through the platform may be subject to applicable financial regulations, compliance obligations, licensing arrangements, jurisdictional limitations, or third-party regulatory requirements.

Availability of specific services may change without notice where necessary to comply with legal, operational, compliance, or regulatory obligations. In this case, Users remain responsible for ensuring that their use of our Services complies with applicable laws and regulations within their jurisdiction.

10. Changes to this Disclaimer

We, Transactx, reserve the right to modify, update, replace, withdraw, or revise this Disclaimer at any time where reasonably necessary for operational, legal, compliance, security, or business purposes.

Updated versions become effective upon publication unless otherwise stated. Continued use of our Services following such updates constitutes acceptance of the revised Disclaimer.
